MITCHEL WILL ACCEPT HEARST LEAGUE BACKING

Announces This Change of Front on Advice of Fusion Managers.

ADAMSON AS HIS AIDE.

Secretary Who Served Gaynor and Kline to Run His Campaign.

John Purroy Mitchel, Fusion candidate for Mayor, announced late this afternoon that he would accept the Independence League nomination at the head of the city ticket. The Independence League meets to-night and it is expected that then Mr. Mitchel's name will be substituted for that of James A. Allen, withdrawn.

Mr. Mitchel declined the nomination he is now willing to accept several weeks ago on the ground that it would not be an act of loyalty to his colleagues on the Fusion ticket, Messrs. Prendergast and McAneny to accept a nomination at the hands of an organization that did not endorse these men.

Politicians immediately became worried over this attitude, for it was stated that the support of William Randolph Hearst hinged entirely on Mitchel's attitude toward the proffered nomination. This support, it is now predicted, Mr. Mitchel will get.

There has been internal dissension in the Independence League since Mr. Mitchel's original refusal and the whole complexion of the political situation was changed by the death of William J. Gaynor and the ending of the Gaynor League.

In explaining his change of front Mr. Mitchel said he had been misled by the advice of leaders of the Fusion movement, who in person and by letter had urged him to accept the nomination offered by the Independence League. He was actuated, too, by the attitude of his colleagues, Prendergast and McAneny, who showed that they had not the slightest objection in the world to his taking the nomination.

Mr. Mitchel also said to-day that Robert Adamson, who was secretary to Mayor Gaynor and has been acting as secretary to Mayor Kline, will conduct the Mitchel campaign.

It is recalled that Mr. Adamson introduced Mr. Mitchel at a church meeting last Sunday night at which Mr. Mitchel apologized for anything he ever said about Mayor Gaynor.

In order to be able to devote all his time to the campaign Mr. Adamson has resigned from the office of secretary to the Mayor. It is understood that he will return to the City Hall in his old job after the campaign, but he has made arrangements to go into business after the first of the year, and cannot, therefore, be considered in line for the secretaryship in the event of the election of Mr. Mitchel.

An embarrassing feature of Mr. Adamson's new field of activity is the fact that he is and has been for four years a member of the Tammany Hall General Committee of the Nineteenth Assembly District. His name leads all the rest. And last night James J. Hynes, leader of the district, put Mr. Adamson's name at the head of the Campaign Committee. Mr. Adamson is also a member of the Tammany Hall club of the district. He says he has never taken an active part in district politics. He lives at No. 215 West One Hundred and First street.

Mayor Kline nominated Julian B. Healy to-day to be his secretary. He was formerly secretary to Borough President McAneny and afterward Superintendent of Public Buildings at a salary of $3,000.

The new secretary is a young man and a Southerner. He was in newspaper work here before he went with Mr. McAneny.

FOOTBALL VICTIM DEAD.

Belyea of Norwich University Had His Spine Broken.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 26.—Vernor S. Belyea, left halfback of Norwich University football team, who suffered a broken spine in a game with Holy Cross College eleven Wednesday, died to-day in St. Vincent's Hospital. Belyea's home was in Greenfield and the body will be taken there for burial.

EBBETS FIELD, BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The Giants, who have only three more games to win in order to clinch the National League pennant this year, lined up against the Dodgers here this afternoon, confident of taking another game from them. About three thousand fans were on hand when the game started. Toscani was sent in by McGraw to beat the Dahlenites with his fast curves, while Allen, the unlucky southpaw of the Dodgers, was given the pitching job for the Dodgers.

Doyle took a day off. He was at the Polo Grounds watching the Highlanders play.

FIRST INNING—Snodgrass drove the ball to right for a base, and on reaching the bag got a cramp in his leg which compelled him to leave the game. Cooper then ran the bases for him. Hertzog followed with a line drive to

BOY TRAIN BANDITS GET $100,000 IN DARING HOLD-UP

Three Masked Youths Shoot at Crew, Dynamite Car and Run Away With Engine.

PASSENGERS NOT HURT.

Posses With Bloodhounds Hunting Over Wide Section—Sheriff Shot Dead.

(Special to The Evening World.)

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 26.—The three masked bandits, mere boys, who held up the Alabama Great Southern passenger train early to-day at Englewood, near Tuscaloosa, escaped with $100,000 after dynamiting the express safe and rifling the mail cars, according to trainmen who arrived here this forenoon. None of the robbers, it is said, appeared to be over eighteen years old.

Deputy Sheriff James Bonner of Birmingham, was shot and killed to-day by a Montgomery, Ala., deputy sheriff, who mistook him for one of the robbers. Bonner was heading a posse scouring the woods near Cottondale.

The trainmen told a thrilling story of their encounter with the robbers. As the train pulled into Blountville, Ala., shortly after midnight, it was noticed that the block signal had been fouled. Engineer Daniels started to investigate and was confronted by a masked bandit, who thrust a revolver in his face. Another robber guarded the doors of the baggage and mail cars, while a third climbed into the locomotive and ordered Fireman Johnson to cut the baggage and mail cars from the rest of the train.

FIRE VOLLEY OF BULLETS INTO MAIL CAR.

The fireman refused. The bandit struck him across the head with a revolver and then forced the engineer and fireman to uncouple the two cars. While the uncoupling was in progress the third member of the gang ordered the mail clerks to leave their cars.

The clerks refused, thinking the three youths were robbers, and a volley of bullets was sent through the mail car, two men, L. Poole and Reuben Sanders, narrowly escaping being hit. All the trainmen were ordered to the rear in the detached cars and the bandits turned their attention to the safe in the express and mail car, firing three loads that wrecked the car.

Seizing two heavy sacks filled with money and a package containing registered mail, the three robbers leaped from the wrecked car and ran toward the engine. With the demolished car still attached, they opened the throttle and disappeared in the darkness.

When the engine raced through Tuscaloosa an hour later, it was running wild and no one was in the driver's seat. Tracers located the abandoned locomotive and car at Englewood, forty miles from the scene of the robbery, at daylight.

It is thought that the three bandits leaped from the train between Tuscaloosa and Blountville and a posse is scouring the woods in that vicinity.

Passengers were not molested, and some of them did not know of the hold-up until they awoke several hours later. Chief McAdory with six deputies, Sheriff of Police Bieder and several private detectives from Birmingham, as well as a posse of deputies from Montgomery and Tuscaloosa and Blount Counties, are hunting for the bandits in Northern Alabama and Tuscaloosa Counties.

SON OF CROKER AIDS SULZER; TWO BLOWS LAND ON DEFENSE

Doctor's Wife Suing Mrs. Mackay In $1,000,000 Alienation Action

MRS. JOSEPH A. BLAKE

MRS. BLAKE WILTS UNDER STRAIN; TOO ILL TO SEE FRIENDS

Will Forgive Doctor, but Will Not Drop $1,000,000 Suit Against Mrs. Mackay.

Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, who has started suit against Mrs. Clarence Mackay for one million dollars for the alienation of the affections of Dr. Joseph A. Blake, is ill at her home, No. 36 East Seventy-fifth street, in the care of a trained nurse. It was said for her that the strain of the last few days since the starting of the suit became public property had brought her to the verge of nervous prostration and that she would receive no one—not even her intimate friends.

In answer to a number of questions submitted by The Evening World Mrs. Blake sent down this message:

"So far as Mrs. Blake knows Dr. Blake has taken no steps toward a reconciliation with her. Any other information must come from her attorney, George Gordon Battle."

But last night Mrs. Blake broke the silence which she has kept since the service of papers in her suit on Mrs. Mackay's counsel became known. She protested that her love and admiration for her husband were unchanged. Friends said for her that if Dr. Blake would come back to his home and give up his friendship for Mrs. Mackay he would be lovingly received.

Friends of both families said that every effort was being made to persuade Dr. Blake to do as his wife wishes. In denial of a statement that Mrs. Blake never meant to continue the suit, but ordered the service of the papers in a desperate effort to awaken Mrs. Mackay and Dr. Blake to the danger of their mutual devotion, a representative of Mrs. Blake said that under no circumstances would the alienation suit be withdrawn.

Friends of Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Mackay asserted to-day that the scandal was not really due to indiscretions by either of the persons concerned, but by deliberate mischief makers in the suffrage movement, in which Mrs. Mackay took an active interest a year ago and more. Persons jealous of her prominence in suffrage agitation, it was asserted, sent telephone messages and notes to Mrs. Blake, who is of a nervous, superstitious disposition, until she became convinced that her home was a secondary interest to Dr. Blake.

Ambassador Morgenthau Declares Governor Asked Him to "Be Easy" in His Testimony and Regard $1,000 Check as "Personal."

TOLD TO "FORGET IT," SUPT. PECK SWEARS.

Court Admits Testimony as to "Intent" of Contributors Which Tends to Overthrow Larceny Charge.

By Samuel M. Williams (Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

ALBANY, Sept. 26.—Charges that Gov. Sulzer had made efforts to suppress testimony of witnesses were made on the witness stand to-day at the impeachment trial. Henry Morgenthau, lately appointed by President Wilson as Ambassador to Turkey, and Duncan W. Peck, State Superintendent of Public Works, each dealt severe blows to the Sulzer defense after Sulzer had won a victory under which it seemed likely the charge of larceny in the sixth article of impeachment would be overturned.

Mr. Morgenthau, who contributed $1,000 to the Governor's campaign fund, testified that only a few weeks ago Mr. Sulzer called him on the telephone and begged him to "ease up" on his testimony. So paralyzing was the blow that the array of Sulzer counsel did not attempt to parry it by cross-examination or modify its crushing effect by further questioning.

STATE OFFICIAL LANDS HARD BLOW.

The blow delivered by Mr. Peck was even more stunning than that of Morgenthau. He declared Sulzer told him he (the Governor) was going to deny stories about campaign funds.

"I said to the Governor," declared Peck, "that I supposed I would be under oath when I appeared before the Frawley committee."

Sulzer's reply, according to Peck, was: "That's nothing. Forget it."

Just before the court adjourned until Monday Richard Croker Jr. testified he had given Sulzer a check for $2,000. Sulzer, he said, asked him to make the check payable to cash or bearer as it was after banking hours and he was leaving the city that night and needed money. The check was dated Oct. 15, but the cancelled stub showed it had not been cashed until Oct. 31. It was indorsed by F. S. Colwell, who is the alleged agent of Sulzer in his stock speculations. Mr. Croker said Sulzer was free to use the check for any purpose.

Earlier in the day a ruling by Judge Cullen that it was permissible to introduce testimony as to the intent of the contributors to the campaign funds—which was sustained by a vote of 49 to 2 members of the court—testimony had been introduced to show that other contributors, like Jacob H. Schiff, had intended their money to be free gifts to a candidate for Governor who was poor and in financial straits. If the money was given for his own use he could not have stolen it and there was no larceny.

This was the first definite line of defense. That the contributors Sulzer did not report were personal gifts to him from his friends. To sustain this defense the Manhattan Club coterie came valiantly to his rescue. Former Judge Lewis J. Conlan told of his long-time friendship for Gov. Sulzer. He got up the pool as a clubby affair just to help good friend Sulzer, even though when he gave over the checks to the recipient he said, "Here is something for your campaign."

Daniel J. Brady, another Manhattan Club member, was put on the stand and sustained Judge Conlan's attitude to the great delight of the Sulzer camp. MORGENTHAU'S TESTIMONY A BLOW TO THE DEFENSE.

Then came Mr. Morgenthau, whose testimony tended to shatter the theory of the defense and also to uphold the charge freely made by Sulzer's foes that he has attempted to influence witnesses. Mr. Morgenthau, who had testified on Wednesday, was recalled for further examination.

"Have you had any communication since your return from Europe this summer with Mr. Sulzer by letter or telephone?" Mr. Morgenthau was asked.

"Yes," he said, "on Sept. 1 Gov. Sulzer called me on the phone at my daughter's house in Portchester."

Q. Tell us what the conversation was? A. He passed the usual complimentary talk about my return, and he asked me whether I would come up to see him at once to Albany. I told him I would not; that
